RSVP PROGRAM INFORMATION

role in the community and a meaningful life in retirement for older adults through significant volunteer service. Retirement from work activities, combined with separation from family and loss of friends and established relationships, often deprives older adults of contacts and resources that might permit them to engage in meaningful activities. Many persons of retirement age need help to find personally satisfying opportunities to be usefully involved in community life, to contribute a full measure of their talents, abilities and experience. The focal point of RSVP activity is the needs and interests of the Senior Volunteer.

Local Retired Senior Volunteer Programs encourage organizations and agencies to develop a wide variety of volunteer opportunities for retired persons. Volunteer opportunities are arranged to match the interests, abilities and physical capacities of older persons who wish to become volunteers through RSVP.

Senior Volunteers serve in a variety of organizations, agencies and institutions day-care centers, hospitals, nursing homes, boy scout offices, economic development agencies and other community-service outlets.

Arrangements for such help are made directly through the local RSVP, whose primary task is to balance local needs with the interests, preferences and concerns of older persons in a meaningful way.

RSVP has no restrictions for Senior Volunteers based on education, income or marital status. It is advertised through newspaper, radio, television, church, club or other announcements.
